Topic : THE GIFT OF KNOWLEDGE

The best aid to give is intellectual aid.
A gift of knowledge is far more preferable than material gifts. Nothing becomes truly one's own except on basis of some genuine effort or sacrifice. A material thing can be adapted without a sacrifice whereas a gift of knowledge can not be accepted without a genuine effort. When one makes a gift of own by making an effort nothing can harm it. The gift of material is short term and makes people dependent whereas the gift of knowledge is long lasting and make people independent and relate to the concept of development. If you teach a man fishing instead of giving him fish, it will not only make him capable to self support but self reliant also. Aid programmes should focus on making men self-reliant by intellectual gifts.

Topic: The Miseries of Human Development

In the history of Human development, men have faced two kind of miseries: one imposed by external nature, second, that humans inflict upon each other. Initially, worst evils were due to environment. Man was a rare species which survived due to biological advantages: the upright posture that freed his hands, and intelligence that enable to transmit experience. Today, the external nature's miseries are fastly diminishing due to scientific intelligence. But hard work is still necessary. However, whenever we choose to exercise freedom can be free from many external bondage. Though, evils inflicted by men upon each other have not diminished. Love of power and fear motivates human to be ruthless towards other.
