

The impact of natural disasters on human development

Outline:

1. Introduction:

Thesis Statement: Natural disasters have not only brought loss in economy but also caused massive casualties. Moreover, Natural disasters have displaced humans, vanished infrastructure, increased poverty, spoiled agriculture activities, so on and so forth.

2. Overview of natural disasters:

3. Impacts of natural disasters on human development:

3.1 Brings loss in economy

A Case study of Japan Tsunami 2013, US$ 2.335

3.2 Disasters cause human casualties

Turkey-Syria Earthquake 50000 casualties

3.3 Displacement of individuals

Reuters Report

3.4 Damages infrastructure

Flooding of 2022 in Pakistan

3.5 Eruption of poverty

The Human Development Index 23-24

3.6 Vanishes agriculture activities

Flooding of 2022 agriculture loss of Pakistan

3.7 Increases food insecurity

UN Report 2023

3.8 Disasters causes diseases

WHO

3.9 Creates unemployment

Global Gender Gap Report 2024

3.10 Impacts education system

Floodings of 2022

3.11 Brings hyper-inflation

loss of agriculture

3.12 loss of local businesses

3.13 Causes gender based violence

New York Times "Women and Disasters"

4. Way forward to handle natural disasters:

5. Conclusion

The Essay

The 44th President of the United States, Barack Obama said before the U.S Congress in 2016 "A single catastrophe can undo the entire hard earned development of a nation." Exactly, a single disaster brings massive damages to the development of humans. Disasters brings loss in economy, causes casualties, displaces humans and brings poverty moreover, a single disaster can damage infrastructure such as roads, buildings and dams. Disasters have the most enormous impacts on agriculture activities, health of humans and cause unemployment. Also, natural disasters spoils educational institutions, bring hyper inflation and loss in local businesses. Natural disasters also give gap to gender based violence especially against women. Undoubtedly, natural disasters have massive negative impacts on the development of humans. Therefore, natural disaster can vanish the entire hard earned development of a nation.

Natural disasters include numerous catastrophes. The divine natural disasters consist floodings, storms and Tsunamis. Also, thunderstorms, heavy snow fall, torandas and cyclones. Further more, a natural disaster can be an earthquake to kill massive number of humans in a second. In short, natural disasters are the most powerful to impact the development of humans.