

EXERCISE 4

You hear every day greater number of foolish people speaking about liberty; as if it were such an honourable thing. So far from being that, it is, on the whole and in broadest sense, dishonourable and an attitude of the lower creatures. No human being, however great and powerful, was ever so free as a fish. There is always something that he must not do, while the fish may do whatever it likes. All the kingdoms of the world put together are not half so large as the sea, and all the rail roads and wheels that ever were, or will be invented, are not so easy as fins. You will find, on fairly thinking of it, that it is his restraint which is more, it is restraint which is honourable even in the lower animals. A butterfly is more free than a bee, but you honour the bee more just because it is subject to certain laws which fit it for orderly function in bee society. And throughout the world, of the two abstract things, liberty and restraint, restraint is always the more honourable.

Exercise 4:- Title: Liberty Vs Restraint

Liberty is not always that desirable and worthy as some mindless people might think of it. In fact, it is the way how animals live. There are always certain limitations on human beings unlike animals. So basically it is the 'restraint' ~~the restraint~~ that keeps our lives well ordered and discipline. So ~~among liberty and~~ Restraint, would always be more desirable among the choice between Liberty and restraint. (61 words)

EXERCISE 5

The hydrogen bomb must be considered not as an engine of victory but solely as an engine of destruction. No good can come of the wrangles in which both sides at present indulge. 'We have the hydrogen bomb', says one. "So have we" says the other. "We have more" says one. But you present more convenient targets, says the other. There is grave danger that sooner or later the wranglings will exasperate people to the point where they will say, 'Let us be done with bragging and put the H-bomb to the test !' Any such procedure is suicidal.

Exercise 3-5

Title: Nuclear Rivalry

Hydrogen bombs are ^{tool} only meant for destruction.

Political arguments among rival countries over their nuclear capabilities can only lead to disaster. This competition can even lead to turn into a physical conflict, which could be suicidal for humanity. (39 words)
