The Essay

Marwan Basha one of the most prominent authors of "Palestine - Israel: Peace or Apartheid." Marwan Basha ascribed in his book that "The shifting Sands of Middle East always tell different stories" Undoubtedly, the shifting sand of the middle East has been telling different stories since the inception of Palestine - Israel war in 1948. The muslim community has also contributed to the independence of Palestine. Muslim countries fought against Israel, imposed embargos, imposed sanctions on the Israeli products and gave diplomatic support to the Palestians. Besides, muslim countries have always isolated Israel diplomatically. The solidarity of muslim nation states have always challenged the capacity of Israel. Pensively, the future of Palestine can be dual. There are strong prospects of two state solution, fear of Israeli illegal occupation, casualties and the influence of Abraham Accords which may hurt the future of Palestine. Therefore, permanent ceasefire, implementation of Beijing Declaration and two state solution can curb the darkest future of Palestine.

To begin with overview of the Palestine issue. The Palestine issue is based on territorial conflict. The UN Partition Plan of 1947 failed to be implemented. The illegal announcement of Israel gave birth to the Palestine chapter. Later, Israeli troops carried out bloody raids against the natives of Palestine. Thus, the territorial conflict is being continued till now which is known as Palestine issue.

The muslim countries fought numerous wars against the State of Israel. According to New York Times (NYT), the muslim countries soon carried out invasions against Israeli oppression of 1948. The muslim countries such as Iran, Iraq, Syria, Jordan and Egypt fought "Six Days War". The "Six Days War" was fought to free the captured territory of Palestinians. Sadly, the six days war brought no massive provisions. Thus, the muslim countries at least tried harder to assist the Palestine.
