

Education is simply the soul of a society.

Outline:

1. Introduction

2. Definition of education.

3. How education is the soul of a society.

3.1) Develops sense of awareness

3.2) Eradicates poverty

3.2) Bridges the gaps between different sects.

3.4) Decreases crime rate.

3.5) teaches morality.

3.6) Improves the well-being of society.

4. Hurdles that constrain education.

4.1) limited resources

4.2) Inadequate infrastructure.

4.3) lack of qualified teachers.

5. Way Forwards

5.1) Funding allocation.

5.2) Adequate infrastructure.

5.3) Qualified teachers.

5.4) Usage of technology.

6. Conclusion.

Essay:

"Education is a powerful tool through which we can change the world"

- Nelson Mandela

In the above mentioned lines, Nelson Mandela has prioritized the real worth of education because it is the soul of society where human beings learn about their well being. Similarly, education develops sense of awareness, teaches morality, and decreases crime rate.

Not only this, but also education eradicates poverty, and bridges the gap between different sects. However, there are some hurdles that constrains education including limited resources, inadequate infrastructure, and qualified teachers. Therefore, it is necessary to adopt preventive measures such as proper funding allocation, adequate infrastructure, and qualified teachers.

Undoubtedly, education is the soul of a society because it develops sense of awareness, bridges the gap, eradicate poverty, and decreases crime rate in the society.

Francis Bacon said that education plays vital role in developing sense of awareness. One can get sense of awareness when one is well-educated and knowledgeable. Education is the only way through which one can develop sense of awareness and transform the society into upper level. For example Finnish society is considered one of the best societies in the world. In Finland, education system is more developed as compared to other countries. Therefore, Finnish people are more organized and developed due to the education that is the soul of a society.

Furthermore, education is a vital tool which eradicates poverty in the society. If the person is not educated, society will lead to poverty. Education gives motive to illiterate people to achieve something in their lives that helps ~~their~~ ~~live~~ them to come out from poverty. For example; Singapore was once considered as weak country but now they are among the top nations because they focused on their education system that helped them to overcome poverty. In simple terms, one can say that education is the core pillar of society which helps them to overcome with their problems.

In addition to this, education is the only way which ~~big~~ bridges the gap between different sects. There are various sects who believe that they are only superior while others are inferior. Due to education, many people have learnt the true meaning of life and believe that everyone is equal.

This can only happen when one is educated and developed because he is well-aware about the caste system. In this way, education helps society to become more prosperous developed.

Moreover, education plays very important role in decreasing crime rate in the society. According to criminology, "Illiteracy is the core reason that begets criminal because no one is criminal by birth." There is no doubt that no one borns criminal, it is ~~society~~ lack of education that force them to commit a crime because they know nothing in their life. Hence, education helps in decreasing crime because if one is educated, why will he commit crime? One cannot deny that education is the soul of a society because it ~~ate~~ helps in lessen crime rate.

Not only this, but also education teaches morality. As once George Bernard said that education builds the character of any person. One cannot deny that a person is known by his character and morality. If he lacks character, people will start saying him illiterate.

There is a famous maxim in literature that if someone loses money, nothing will go, if health loses, ~~not~~ something will happen, if someone loses the character, everything will go. Therefore, morality is something that cannot be compromised at any cost because it justifies the character of a person.

Education also improves the well-being of society. The actual plot of education is to provide skills to ~~the~~ people who will improve their well-being. A society is always known by the people who work persistently to improve the well-being of society. If people are illiterate, they will suffer from poverty which will promote crime in the society.

Therefore, education plays a positive role because if one gets education, he will ultimately get a job that helps him to improve the well-being of society.

Simply, one can say education makes the society. As once Napoleon said that give me educated mother, I will give you educated nation. So, one cannot deny the real power of education which lies in the hand of educated people.

However, education faces some hurdles which constrain it to become soul of a society. Limited resources is one of the important factors which chain the education.

Many people are facing issues like unable to access all information, lack of technology, very less funding allocation, and adverse conditions of classrooms. If there is limited resources, it is hard for students to gain proper knowledge. No nation can grow if it is compromising with the education. Unfortunately, many third world countries are facing the issue of limited sources so that they are still struggle to overcome their problems.

Additionally, inadequate infrastructure is another hurdle that constrain education in the society. There are many institutions which are lacking infrastructure in classrooms.

For example; countries like Pakistan, India, Bangladesh and many third world countries who are abject facing infrastructure related ills because these countries focus on other matters of their states instead of focusing education. Therefore, they are still struggling to overcome their problems. In classroom, there is no proper sitting area, lack of electricity, and water issue. These issues constrain the people to achieve education.

Not only this, but there is also lack of qualified teachers in the institutions. In many countries, education is not prioritized because they believe that nothing will happen if one gain education because of lack of qualified teachers. Even, in many countries, teaching is considered as last option to do the job because there is no respect of teacher in these countries. In Finland, it is easier to become doctor and lawyer than to become a teacher. But, in third world countries, it is easier to become a teacher than lawyers and doctor. Thus, every qualified student use to prefer other option than teacher due to societal norms that constrain them to become a teacher.

There is no doubt that education plays positive role but it is chained by some factors. Thus, there is a dire need to overcome these hurdles. Therefore, it is necessary to spend good amount of funding on education because if you allocate good budget, people will indulge themselves in education owing to impressive ambience of classroom.

There is no doubt that funding allocation helps to bridge the gap of limited resources.

Furthermore, it is imperative to provide adequate infrastructure to the institution because it will encourage people to gain education which will ultimately prove helpful for the society. Without providing infrastructure, it will be hard for students to gain authentic and relevant information regarding the subject of their discourse. So, it is necessary to allocate adequate infrastructure.

It is also necessary to improve the education that there should be proper management of qualified teachers. One can adopt the model of Finland because Finnish society gives more respect to a teacher than other professions. Also, there is a proper way to indulge a teacher in education. In Finland, only master degree holders are applicable for the ~~jobs~~ teaching job who are among top 10% in their degree. Therefore, the Finland education system is considered as one of the best systems. On this model, one can select more educated and qualified teachers.

To cut the long story short, education is the soul of a society because it makes the society more prosperous and creative which ultimately eradicate poverty, lessen crime rate, ~~bring~~ bridge the gap between different sects and develops sense of awareness. In simple term, nothing will happen, nobody comes; nobody goes, it is the education that teaches the morality and sense of well-being in the society.