

Discuss the ~~Boarders~~ broader strategic objectives of China through CPEC and BRI in terms of global trade & regional influence.

Introduction :-

The BRI may be China's idea, but its opportunities and outcomes are going to benefit the world. The China-Pakistan Economic Corridor (CPEC) is a major infrastructure project aimed at connecting Gwadar port in Pakistan to China Kashgar. The project includes highways, railways, energy-projects, and special economic zones to boost trade and economic growth in both countries.

Alignment of CPEC with BRI :-

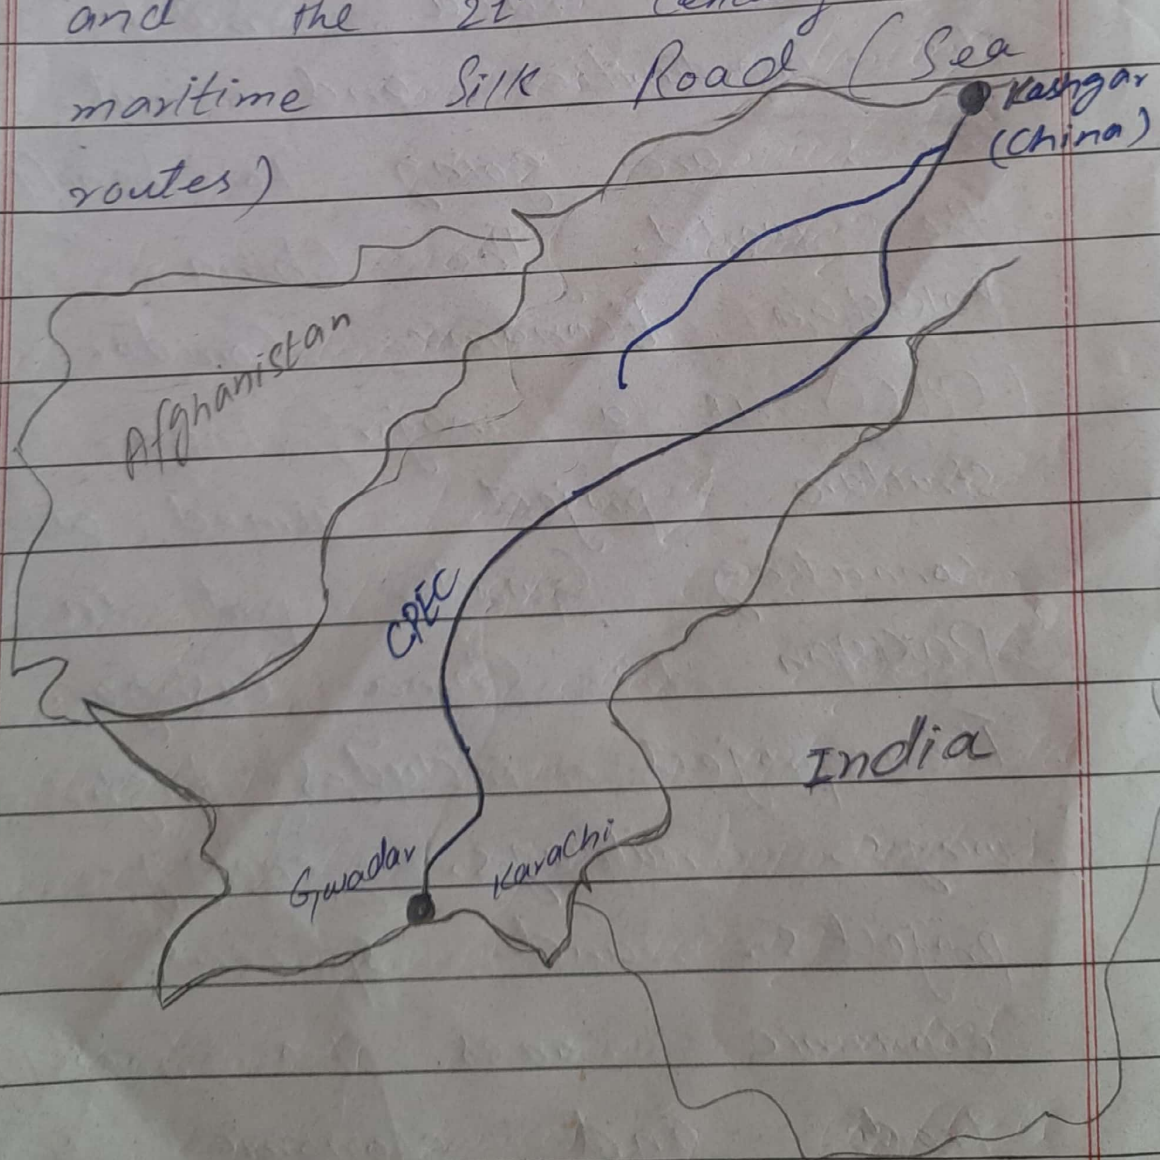

- ① Economic growth and Connectivity
- ② Political Influence
- ③ Stability and Security.

China wants to boost economic growth in South Asia through CPEC and BRI. By improving infrastructure in Pakistan, China we can create better trade links with South Asian countries, making it

The BRI is a global infrastructure developmental strategy adopted by China in 2013. The investment is in nearly 70 countries.

BRI has two main components: the Silk Road Economic Belt (land routes) and the 21st Century Maritime Silk Road (sea routes)

easier and quicker to transport goods.

By investing
in South Asia, China
aims to increase its political influence in the region. This helps China to build strong relationship with South Asian countries, balancing against other powerful nations and securing
its interests.

Improving Pakistan's economy through CPEC, can lead to greater regional stability. When people would have better job opportunities
and improved living conditions, there would be less chances of conflicts
and extremism.

Enhancing the Silk Road Economic Belt

- ① → Trade Routes
- ② → Energy Security
- ③ → Regional Integration

CPEC creates a direct trade route from China to Arabian Sea, reducing the time and cost of transporting goods.

This makes trade more efficient and supports China's goal of enhancing global trade routes.

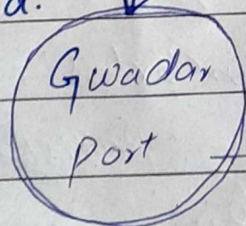

CPEC includes projects to solve Pakistan's energy problems. By insuring a steady energy supply China helps Pakistan to grow economically, which also helps benefits China by having a reliable partner for its energy needs.

Through CPEC, China aims to connect South Asia to Middle East and Africa. This broader integration creates a large network of economic cooperation, strengthening China's role in global trade.

Infrastructural Development :-

a.

→ enhance maritime trade routes linking the middle East and Africa with China.

Projects
Like

- ① → Highways and Railways
- ② → Pipeline Projects
- ③ → Energy Investments

CPEC includes the construction of extensive road and railway networks. These projects aim to improve connectivity between Pakistan and China and within Pakistan itself.

These projects also includes oil and gas pipelines to secure energy supply for China, ensuring a steady flow of resources from M.E. China is investing heavily in Pakistan's energy sector, addressing Pakistan's energy shortage and provided providing power for industrial activities.

The development of Gwadar port is crucial. It will enhance maritime trade routes, linking China direct with Middle East and Africa, by passing the longer route through the strait of Malacca.

"CPEC will serve as bridge for new maritime silk routes that envisages
connecting three billion people in Asia, Africa and Europe"

(Pakistan Institute of planning, Development and Reforms)

Broader Strategic Objectives of China through BRI and CPEC :-

- (a) Global Trade enhancement and Market expansion
- (b) Regional Influence and Geopolitical strategy
 - (b1) → Economic influence
- (c) Technological and Industrial Advancement.
 - (c1) Technology Transfer
 - (c2) Innovation and development

China uses CPEC and BRI to enhance global trade by creating new routes and improving existing ones. This ensures quicker and more reliable access to market in Asia, Africa and Europe.

"The Belt and Road initiative is China's most ambitious economic and diplomatic programme since the inception people's Republic of China"

-(Council on Foreign Relations)

These initiatives encourage innovation and development as new technology pave the way for modern industries and economic activities.

"According to DAWN, CPEC is expected to create over 2.3 million jobs in Pakistan by 2030, and adds 2.5% to the country annual economic growth rate."

-(DAWN Newspaper)

Economic Benefits for Partner Countries :-

BRI focuses on creating economic benefits in partner countries like Pakistan. Several projects are underway in Pakistan.
