

CSS-2016

Precis

The author wanted to visit an unconventional but exciting place during his vacation but had difficulty in choosing such. Upon his friend's suggestion he decided to visit Cheeroke. After arrival they visited the historical hilly areas called Queen that looked very beautiful in summer nights and the best place for tourists. With the help aborigine they visited many shops that were filled with historical pieces. Natives told that they earned very handsome amount through tourism but in off season their survival depend on bingo nights. Author visited museum where all things represent their culture. At his return the author longed for visiting another place like Cheeroke.

Title:

Cheeroke: Fantastic Tourist Place.

Comprehension passage:

Question No 1:

Most of us fail in our efforts for self-improvement because our routine is mismanaged and we never find the time to carryout.

Question NO 2

This is the basic mistake, to announce the resolution to everyone because when we get fail, our relatives jibes and taunts us that is enough to low down the moral. And also look more foolish in front of everyone.

Question NO 3

Writer not carry out his resolution on new year's day. Due to an overnight party give him an excuse.

Question NO 4

Intimidating

Scare

Dwindle

Diminish

Peril

Danger

Repel

Force back

Barb

Projection

Translation:

Common people believe that the law of the land and the freedom of an individual are antithetical to each other. Apparently, this does not seem wrong. Every law imposes limitations on citizens. If number of laws in a country is high, the overall restrictions are also high. Too many restrictions weigh down the freedom of the individual.

On the contrary, if the laws are less then the freedom of citizens is wide.

CSS 2017

Precis

The world's problems are often caused by those who are constantly active but lack purpose and direction. Despite being busy, these individuals often fail to make a positive impact. The real issue is not laziness but the absence of thoughtful, deliberate actions. Historical events such as the period leading up to the World War I demonstrate that if leaders had taken time to rest and reflect, they might have handled affairs more effectively. Presently, if politicians can religiously focus on genuine issues instead of merely contributing more constructively, true progress requires not just activity but purposeful, reflective effort.

Title: Human Misdirected Energies

Comprehension Passage:

Question No 1

The author laments that element of beauty has been limited only to the words works of artists and scientists, who are supposed to possess a rare sense for appreciation of beauty. Art has disappeared from the lives of ordinary people and workmen. It is unfortunate that common people and workmen are oblivious to the fact that aesthetics is an essential part of life of every man, not just the prerogative of a few chosen people.

Question No 2

Artists are great lovers of life and they value beauty as a principle of life. For a common man, beauty is only a supplementary factor, but an artist values beauty for the sake of beauty.

Question No 3

We can make our life lives beautiful and charming by realizing the importance of aesthetic aspects of every activity of life. We must discover the principle of beauty in everything we do. It would add charm to life.

Question No 4

Writer wants to say that beauty is not just a superficial decoration or a discretionary choice. The writer believes that beauty is an integral part of life. The relationship between the life and the beauty is not optional but compulsory.

Question No 5

Art and aesthetics deeply influence our lives. These are not just a source of sensuous pleasure but give us spiritual satisfaction. Discovery of relationship in all things, made by man or nature, is a spiritual activity. Life without beauty will be spiritually barren. Such work will be dangerous and immoral.

Translation:

In order to discover our ~~own~~ hidden faults, it is important to see what our enemies say about us. Our friends praise us to please our feelings. Firstly, our faults do not seem to be faults to them or else they hold our sake so dear that they hide them with the idea of not hurting him or they ignore them. On the contrary our enemy leaves ~~not~~ no stone unturned or in other words compels him to make mountain of a mole hill. But there is some truth in it. A friend always enhances the virtues of his friend and the vices of the enemy. Therefore we should be more kind to our enemy that he informs us of our faults. With this prism in view an enemy proves better than a friend.
