

Title: Idle Mind: Not necessarily a devil's playground (2017)(ESS)

→ All the evils in this world are brought by the busiest people. I think the devil also hates laziness. Today we admit that world is a mess but I do not think its due to laziness. It is the steadiness that its lacking and not energy. For example people in early 20th century spent a great time idling around in the world. Today if even half the politicians would idle for some days, we would surely gain from it. Holders of religious conferences would also benefit from idling that will give them a break from criticizing people all the time.

~~Pros of cold are clear in northern~~

Benefits of cold weather are clear in northern Europe. The cold acts as an obstacle and pushes a man to work harder.

A hot climate does not offer that. In a moderately cold climate, man has to face struggles like building strong houses, keeping warm clothes in the inventory, keeping storage of coal and wood for fires, avoiding cold wind and keeping stock of nourishing food.

The man of tropics is different. Around the equator ~~clothes and fire~~ a man can spend his day under a tree with little need of clothes and fire and with ease and safety. Little food that is easily procurable is required for sustaining life.

Seasons of the year also work the same for us. In hot weather life is easy and in cold it is difficult.
