

Democracy in Pakistan: Hurdles and Hopes

Pakistan has been facing instable political system since its inception. There has ^{not} been a government who completed its complete duration historically. And three unwanted dictators have also ruled on Pakistan ~~due to~~. Under this situation in the past and in present times, democracy ~~has~~ has been damaged badly. Democracy became weak when the political system fails in country. Pakistan democratic system has been surrounded by hurdles and hopes. Hurdles are, ^{the} most interference of institutions in democratic processes, exploitation of power, irregularities in the voting processes, judicial activism in political system, exploitation of constitution through amending laws in it against the targeted party, and Foreign powers interference.

In the political democratic processes. These all factors lead to power greedness. Democratic parties all want to be dominant and empowered in country, while public is facing the consequences of their political war in the democracy, in form of inflation, unrest in society, unemployment, corruption and poverty. For the prevailation of democracy in Pakistan, there are certain hopes to be persuaded which are limitations of institutional rules. So that ^{they do} not ~~to~~ interfere in democratic processes apart from their responsibilities. Additionally there are hopes, ~~for~~ that political parties must integrate ~~and~~ to work for the peace and prosperity. Similarly judicial system ^{need to} follow whatever the constitution of Pakistan orders. In a nut shell, Pakistan needs to prevail the actual democracy.
