It is an abstract topic, address it accordingly

"Both men and women should feel free to be sensitive. Both men and women should feel free to be strong... It's time that we all perceive gender on a spectrum not as two opposing sets of ideas." This quote from Emma Watson illustrates that women are not weak it is the perception created in a society as a whole. Frailty, the name is women this statement from Shakespeare's play Hamlet. In which Hamlet argues that women are weaker in every aspect because of their being emotional and fragile. Nevertheless, today women are not weak. They equally participate in every walk of life. It is the perception of the society that views them as a weaker being. Gender is a socially constructed phenomenon and it has nothing to do with human's intellectual abilities. Along with it, history has proved that women remained successful in running the states to walk side by side with men in the creation of a country. Sadly, women get harassed everywhere still stand strong and fight for herself. However, few argue that women is weak by nature because she lacks muscular capability and they are emotional beings. Secondly, dignity of a woman lies in her staying home so. She can be safe as the outdoors is not safe for her anymore. Additionally, women lacks decisional making skills. Alternatively, women of today shine as bright as sun as they have excel in every field where women used to be considered as a Taboo. From being a mountain climber to setting new world guinness records. She has left her marks in every known field of the world. That's why it says Men and women both have their weaknesses. However, Labelling one's gender as weak because of physical attributes is an orthodox mindset. Women have always been side by side with men from personal to state level affairs.
