

Topic # Economic Pessimism

(Please suggest grammatical mistakes to improve)

A recent survey indicated that economic pessimism is increased in Pakistan in spite of recent improvements. The survey also revealed that very few people believe that Pakistan is heading towards right direction. It does underline the majority of the people are not satisfy with the current situation of the country. The inflation has increased the cost of living. It also increases the taxation including both direct and indirect taxes. These factors have created unrest among the people. As a result, optimism has significantly decreased from the previous quarter. The public confidence has decreased over the improvement of macro-economic factors which will be resulted in future. They believe only sustainable reforms can improve their living standards of life.

Remarks: