

Translation 2017

In order to be aware ^{of} our hidden flows, it is imperative that we know what our enemy ^{says} about us. Our friends often praise us as we want them to do. First, they do not consider our defect as defect. Either they try to hide our fault, because, they ^{do not} want to hurt us or they ignore them. Contrary ^{to} this, our enemy keeps keen interest into us and tries his best in finding our weakness and exaggerates it. Yet, there is always some reality in it. A friend always promotes his friend's good but an enemy highlights the flaws. So, we should ^{be} more indebted to our enemy because he ^{makes} us aware of shortcomings. It seen in ^{this} context, an enemy is better than a friend.
