Title is missing.

Most of the people in this world lack sense of direction which is the reason of all the evils. Devil is one of such busy creatures and surely nobody is allowed to waste time in his kingdom. This disorganized state of the world is not caused by laziness but rather lack of empathy and thoughtfulness. Everybody in this world has lots of energy but it is often misdirected. If our statesmen instead of rushing to Versailles immediately ~~then~~ <sup>had</sup> definitely it would have been better for their reputation and affairs of the state. It would be better for us if European politicians <sup>did not</sup> think of laziness as crime. Religious parties arrange conferences but end up <sup>discussing</sup> trivial matters instead of trying to curb evil and protect civilization. It would be better if they tried to improve their mental health by getting some rest.
