Children Education Needs Affection

The modern educationalists are in the favour of strict rules for children rather than enjoying their company. If people treat this child like their pets, they will respond positively without any objection. However, they will become disappointed, if they come to ~~know~~ know about their hidden intentions. Whereas, the most desirable pleasure of the children is the one with love. Teachers with this quality are gems, but those overburdened teachers lack such quality. Therefore, teaching should be a secondary profession to decrease such burden, because strict discipline causes fatigue that ultimately leads to irritation. Thus, anything for children is correct to make them happy, because love is free from any rules.
