

The Roots of Education are Bitter, but the Fruit is Sweet.

Outline

A. Introduction

Human beings and their enhanced cognitive development

1. Cognitive development of human being
2. Contextual overview of the topic
3. Thesis statement

B. The Roots of Education are Bitter

- i. Education as a tiresome journey;
 - a. Long term processes
 - b. Constant struggle from class first to masters level and so on.

These are just two aspects

U can add education is antagonistic to traditional and superstitious ideas that's is why it is struggle

- ii. Monetary costs implies the bitter roots of education;

- a. Huge educational expenses in schools, colleges and universities.

- iii. Consistent consumption of energy;

- a. Requires commitment and hardwork
- b. Bearing pressure of examinations

C. How the Fruit of Education is Sweet:

- i. Enhances critical thinking ability;
 - a. Positive decision making in life
- ii. Ensures uplifted moral character

iii. Fosters holistic development of personality;

a. View of philosopher John Dewy

iv. Guarantees a ~~status~~ Well growth of life

a. Means to achieve a respectable profession.

v. Ensures a balanced family life;

a. Awareness about family obligations

vi. Embarking a person to a distinct social status;

a. Evidence from verse of ~~the Quran~~ Of the Holy Quran

vii. Gives a high standard living to people.

a. Social upliftment of an educated society.

b. Case study of Netherlands.

viii. Inculcates democratic spirit among people;

a. Ensures a mature political culture.

b. Awareness about rights and corresponding duties.

D. Conclusion

