Title: Different behaviour of human at different season of the year.

In the temperate countries of northern Europe, the <sup>effects</sup> effect of cold are mostly manifested. <sup>S</sup> Similarly, a cold climate is an obstacle, because it numbs human energies and leaves no room for exercise and training of energy. Likewise, intense cold also numbs human energies. Moreover, in moderate cold, people <sup>are</sup> have motivated and build strong houses, wear thick clothes. For fire, they use trees and coal. Furthermore, in equator, <sup>man</sup> human needs little clothes or fire and have spend day beneath the shadow of tree. In such circumstances, to sustain life, little food is required to nourish body. According to <sup>the</sup> author, that we need must recognize the different human nature in different <sup>seasons</sup> season of the year, because in hot season we take life easily, but in cold we feel it difficult.
