We are the first generation to feel the effect of natural disasters and we are the first generation that can do something to mitigate their effects. Pakistan according to Global Climate Risk Index 2025 is among top ten countries to be affected by climate change, but on the other hand Pakistan is not ready to deal with natural disasters. Pakistan has no preparedness for natural disasters due to no early warning systems, less resilient infrastructure, inefficient local governments, lack of coordination among national and provincial management authorities, compromised law and order situation, no research on natural disasters, unprofessional
