

Is a Highly Competitive Environment Good or Bad?

1- Introduction

Hook

General statement

Thesis statement: The social, national, and global fabric has been deteriorated under the guise of a highly competitive environment.

2- The Dark Side of Highly Competitive Environment

2.1- Social Impact

Class struggle; Marxist theory, vacuum for crime - strain theory

Capitalism; case study of "Gilded age"

2.2- National Impact

Political parties; polarization of social structures, hate speech

Tool used; opposition crackdown, gagging of media, surveillance tools - infringe privacy

2.3- Global Impact

Competition in history; colonialism in Africa,

America, Asia - England vs. Spain and France

Capitalism vs. Communism; WWI, WWII

nuclearization of land, space and sea

Third Nuclear Age Arm Race; Non-nuclear weapons and AI integrated advanced weapons

2.4- Crossborder Impact

Pakistan and India; Secret warfare, biological and psychological warfare, Nexus of Pakistan, India, USA and China; Implications on Nuclear deterrence

3- Why Competitive Environment is Bad

Causes Psychological Pressure in general public

Influence social cohesion, crime rate, unrest and unity

Hamper multilateral cooperation, global peace, economic (division) interdependence

4- Counter Argument: High competition is Good

Encourage progress, development, advancement. Increase defence and military capabilities

5- Rebuttal

5- Progress at cost of peace, humanitarian crisis and polarization of opinion across globe

6- Conclusion