

Final Draft

Challenges of Different Seasons

In the temperate region, the benefits of cold are overrated. As, cold climate itself is a hurdle in performing daily task. Also, it makes a human being lazy and less exertive. Comparatively to an intense cold and hot season, the spring season is quite beneficial in performing daily task. As, in this season, individuals make efforts to perform task that is related to livelihood. However, due to a lot of physical work the body needs healthy food. On the other hand, people in the tropics, enjoys the calm weather. To get rid of the hot, they spend their long days under the shadow of the tree. Resultantly, different seasons are like the life of human beings. As humans experience challenging days and joyful days just like different seasons.

where is the word count?

main idea is picked and discussed over all content is fine no need of cut sentence need improvement 8/20