

Title:

"Nizar Hussain Filmmaking
Art and Palestine"

Nizar Hussain, a Palestinian film-producer, after graduation moved to cinema. In his iconic documentary "Independence", he asked from the Palestinian interviewees about Palestinians perspective regarding Israel claims of independence. When the global awareness of Israel illegal annexation was on rise, he produced another Palestinian film named "My Grandfather's path". He also highlighted the importance of humanity and advised Palestinian to avoid inhuman acts like that of Israeli soldiers. He praised Palestinian art which did not evoke vindictive feelings in the audience. His new film displayed the Israel's atrocities and Palestinian's point in a peaceful and artistic way. His precise

Version

is

water

34

version is available, but it is recommended by the author to watch as a whole.

344 total

115 words

Mock 1

Comprehension

Qno:1

Patton was considered as controversial military figure in American military history due to his surprising and unconventional military actions. He courageously manifested his unorthodox views, and challenged traditional wisdoms.

Qno:2

According to Alan Axelrod, Patton's perspective was justified in Alan's book "Patton: A Biography". In this book Alan explicitly interpreted the Patton's belief that America should defeat the Soviets instead Nazi Germany in WWII because Soviet was a prolonged threat to America's democratic system.

Qno:3

If Patton had captured Moscow then the outcome of world war two would have been quite different. And there would not have been a cold war ever happening in the history.

Qno:4

The contrasting sentiments mentioned in the text regarding the Patton's view was the criticism on Patton for his unconventional views by historians. And the complimentary sentiments was appreciation and praising of Patton for his courage to challenge conventional wisdom as it is an important lesson for leaders.

Qno:5

The valuable lessons that the leaders may infer from Patton's views are thinking outside the box and challenge orthodox and conventional knowledge. By thinking differently they may create a new perspective.

Precis

Title:

"Politicians Unparalleled Political Skills"

Politicians portray themselves as a model of perfection in the domain of governance. Their unique eloquence deceive audience and compel them to believe their falsehood. During accountability, they hide their fiasco by beating about the bush. Their ~~fake~~ unfulfillable promises before elections are the tactics to fill ballot boxes. Fake tears and emotional oratory represent their dramatic talent. An act of welfare captured by a camera grants more strength to their politics. To ensure self-defence, they change their ideologies and policies, even escape from scandals by blaming others. Their behaviours have eroded the purpose of leadership.

Total = 297 words

Precis = 99 words