

Climate Effects On Industry

Climate effects workers by making them weak or strong and changing their habits. Cold places affect regular work. Harsh weather and ^{little sun-} ~~regular~~ -light hinder a regular work. Their irregular work routine weakens the industry. This principle works in different situations. Climate effects not only labour, but also government, religion, and manners. For example Sweden and Norway is different from Portugal and Spain due to weather. Ongoing farming is not possible in these areas. In southern region work stop due to dry weather and poor soil. In northern countries, harsh weather and short days have stopped work. As a result, these nations despite difference share instability unchangeable behavior.