THE ESSAY

As Quaid-e-Azam Muhammad Ali Jinnah once envisioned, "Pakistan was created to provide a homeland for Muslims where they could live with dignity and prosperity." Today, it's time to reinvigorate this vision and explore the pathways that can lead Pakistan to its rightful place among the prosperous nations of the world. Unfortunately, Pakistan is a country which is currently stuck in a maelstrom of challenges. There is political polarization and instability in the country which is accompanied by its fragile economy. It is faced with a lot of social issues. The security protocols are inefficient with backward technology. Exacerbating the situation is the weak democratic and governance framework, which perpetuates inefficiencies, undermines accountability, and hinders Pakistan's progress towards prosperity. Despite being beset by a myriad of domestic and international challenges, Pakistan can still embark on a path towards prosperity by pursuing key strategies, including raising political consciousness among its citizens, boosting tourism, revamping the education system, ameliorating security, advancing technology, ensuring democracy
