

Evolution, ^{is} a gift of Brain

Evolution is an amazing gift of Brain. Brain has provided multiple benefits to the humans. It has multiplied the sensory organs of human, by making them capable of bringing moon near to them, hearing to different sounds, and seeing of very small objects. In this way, humans have defeated nature because it has created an amazing thing in the form of brain. However, evolution persists because man has taken the responsibility of its development. They can also enhance the process of evolution by moral and spiritual values, and by connecting with the God. In the same way, the freedom of evolution they have achieved is also a gift of God, and they can use it in their way.

there is no reference of the main passage basic grammar and sentence structure needs improvement presentation is poor
need improvement 6/20

Total words=310

Precis words=65