

Why did Russia attack Ukraine? China-Russia alliance threat to the US. Proof.

Introduction:

Ukraine is the most populous and powerful country among the fifteen soviet republics. It has possessed a most fertile land, which provides it an eminent position in the region. Along with this, it also possesses a major transit route to europe. Therefore, Russia uses its avenue to supply oil and gas to europe and other countries. In reciprocate, of the usage of Ukraine streamline, Russia pays huge amount to Ukraine. However, russia attacked Ukraine due to its key position, and to develop a cordial ties with china to boost its economy and to suppress the monopoly of the US.

in the World.

Veering of Ukraine towards Europe and the fear of Russia's aristocracy:

The western nationalist of Ukraine pressurized the president to integrate with the Europe and the Russian speaking people of eastern Ukraine wanted to join Russia.

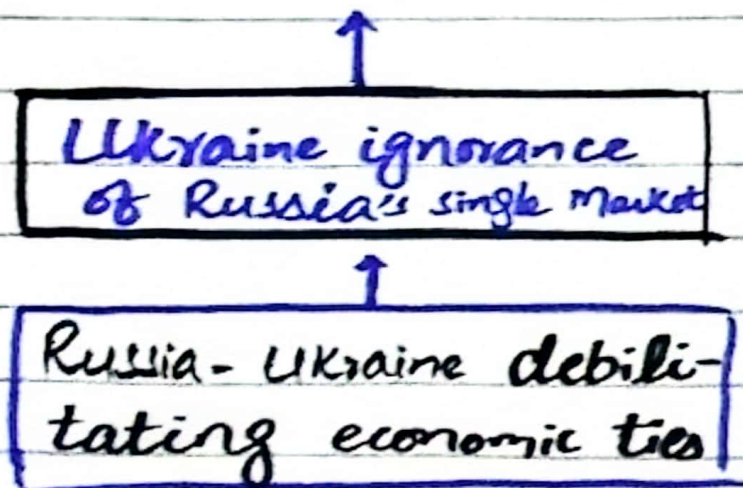

“Proclivity of Ukraine towards the EU would harm the dominance of Russia in the northern Europe.”

(Stavitz)

Ukraine ignorance of Single Market - Eurasian Economic Union (EAEU):

Ukraine wants to develop a sovereign state, since its inception. It is because of the hegemony of Russia. Therefore, Ukraine^{has} wanted to build strong and friendly relations with the USA and the UK, to expand its trade.

Leaning of Ukraine towards the market of the US and the UK has withered the economic ties of Ukraine and Russia.

Familial bondage of Ukraine and Russian cities:

Russia invaded Ukraine to capture the land of its ancestors. In fact, there was a familial relation and attraction between Russia and Ukraine.

Ukraine is the mother of ^{the} Russian cities.

John's Petersburg

The major cities of Russia - Moscow and St. Petersburg have cultural and civilizational relations with Ukraine.

The trade of Russia and Ukraine's transit fee:

Russia possesses the major reservoirs of oil and gas. It supplies oil and gas in the whole universe and generate mammoth revenue.

"Russia sells 40-60% of its gas reservoirs to the European countries by using the pipeline of Kyiv."

(Joseph Stiglitz)

Ukraine charges 3 billion dollar annually to Russia for the usage of its pipeline. Therefore, to conserve this gigantic amount, Russia attacked Ukraine.

BRICS: The expansion in the world's economic market and the US suppression:

The growing nexus of Russia and China is a serious threat for the US. There is suspicion that Russia invaded Ukraine to get the benefit of its strategic location and directly develop its economic ties with China.

cc

Russia and China are the key players of looming global economic confederation."

(World Bank)

Both the countries are the major opponent of the US. Therefore, they try their best to dwindle the syndicate of the US in the universe.

China as a major buyer of Russian oil and gas and the marginalization of the US:

As a consequence of Russia-Ukraine war, Russia stopped to supply its oil and gas to the US and the UK. Both the countries were the most supporting stakeholder of Kyiv. However, China is purchasing major chunk of oil and gas of Russia. Now, it seems that both the countries are focused to bolster their economic ties.

“The enactment of heavy taxes on the products of the US by China is the sign of growing nexus of Russia and China.”

(Ajay Banga)

add more arguments.

a 20 marks answer should have around 15 arguments.

Conclusion:

In a nutshell, Russia invaded Ukraine to show the dominance in the region, to bolster its economic ties with other countries, like China. Furthermore, it attacked Ukraine to annex the maritime base "Black Sea Fleet" and to capture the peninsula.

17 Additionally, the growing nexus of Russia and China is an emerging blow to the consortium of the US in the universe. But the countries are imposing various sanctions on the trade realm of the US. For this purpose, they launched BRICS; an emerging global market.