

Comparison Paragraph:

Money is not everything, but it is an essential part of life. Everyone respects those who have money in society. On the other hand, if you don't have money, you are often treated with disrespect. For example, people in our society give more respect to a rich, uneducated person than to a teacher or professor. Similarly, money allow you to buy life's luxuries, while those without it struggle to find enough food for two meals a day. For instance, people in Gaza are losing their lives to hunger, while the rest of the world is busy wasting food. Likewise, with money, you can build shelters for yourself, but without it, you might not even be allowed to stay on the roadside. For example, billionaires in Los Angeles can quickly buy new houses after their homes are destroyed by fire, while the people of Gaza, even after the truce between Israel and Palestine, helplessly live among the rubble of their homes.
