

The Crisis of ethics and morality in international politics.

Outline:

1. Introduction:

Thesis statement: International politics has been pushing the existence of humanity into destruction. The ethics and morality crisis include war crimes, aggression, discrimination so on and so forth. The crisis of ethics and morality in international politics can be eliminated through respect for human rights, religious tolerance and unity against aggression.

2. Overview of international politics:

3. The crisis of ethics and morality in international politics:

3.1 War crimes against humanity

A case in point: Israel's Genocidal war in Gaza

3.2 Aggression against civilians

A case study of Sudan

3.3 Discrimination on the basis of religion

International Crisis Group Report on extremists in India

3.4 Climate injustice in the international arena

Kyoto Protocol's implementation

3.5 The extreme use of power against oppressed individuals

A Case in point: The U.S.A.'s veto against Palestine

3.6 Hybrid warfare against individuals

A case study of Ukraine vs. Russia

4. Recommendations to eliminate the crisis of ethics and morality in international politics:

4.1 Nation states must respect universal human rights

Rome Statute (ICC)

4.2 Genocidal wars must be discouraged

4.3 Role of peace keeping organization

A case in Point: UNO

4.4 Sanctions must be implemented against dictatorial regimes

A case study of Al-Assad Regime

4.5 Promoting religious tolerance

4.6 Eliminating discrimination

4.7 Role of NSOs is required

5. Conclusion: