It is very plant to health than that of the man who shortens his hours by rising late, and so can afford in the course of the day little leisure for necessary rest. Any one in hed late, must, if he wishes to do a full day's work, go on working to a correspondingly late. hours by hou himself the hour or two of evening exercise that he ought to take for the benefit of his health. But, in spite himself the will probably produce as good results as the early riser, because he misses the best working hours of the day.

It may be objected to this that some find the perfect quiet of midnight by far the best time for working. This doubt true in certain cases. Several great thinkers have found by experience that their intellect is clearest, they can write best, when they burn the midnight oil. But even in such cases the practice of working late at cannot be commended. Few men, if any, can exert the full power of their intellect at the time when nature rescribes sleep, without ruining their health thereby; and of course the injury done to the health must in the long a bad effect on the quality of the work done.

Blessing of rising early

tarly risers are usually at advantaged position as compared to those who wake up date. This is because, dising early can provide ample time to perform required tasks without distraction. Due can also take time to exercise for obtaining health benefits. On the other hand, those who wake up late, bears extra strain of dispensing their work, along with the compromise on their health. Whereas, some people are of the view that they ean do well in the late hours of the right believing that their mind feel relaxed at night. But this is against the principle of nature and thus put worse impact on ones health and quality of work.
