Women empowerment is linked with human empowerment

"Give pens to your daughters instead of guns to your sons for protection of your nation"

- Malala Yousafzai

A twelve year old girl, Malala Yousafzai, was shot in head by heartless Talibans when she was heading back to home from school in school bus. After multiple threats she ~~###~~ continued to go to her school without any sense of fear of their guns and threats which made her face death from the nearest possible lens. This was what made Malala the real self of her, she is an advocate to girls' education world wide and has served many global organizations to facilitate women. Her present achievements encourage hundreds of such girls to fight back for their basic rights despite all restrictions. Women play a pivotal role to enhance human empowerment, the link between both is deep rooted and women empowerment and human empowerment goes side by side. Is it even possible to imagine a world without any women? Is it right-ful to marginalize half of the global population of women to empower other half? Does society achieve its goals by eliminating women? Through these very basic questions, it is evident that nations would collapse without women. Hence, women empowerment is linked with human empowerment as it plays a pivotal role to transform generations, promotes awareness regarding basic fundamental rights, and has power to enhance equality among all people in a nation.

Before moving ahead with discussion, it is important to know what women empowerment means and what is its role in human empowerment. Women empowerment depicts the increased role of women in society by encouraging or motivating her in all domains of life. History provides enough evidences that nations and civilizations start from women and they tend to be building blocks to whole communities. A strong women in all sectors of society helps to empower other human. According to World Bank report, 2024, women make 49.6% of global population. In reference to Behaviourist School of thought of Psychology, women have ability to change nations through her ability to convince and understand things rationally. Michelle Obama, wife of former President of US, states that "women empowerment is interconnected with nations' empowerment". Women holds an ability to take all people along towards peace and prosperity, therefore it can not be overlooked that women empowerment is linked with human empowerment.

The opponent school of thought believe that women empowerment is not merely linked with human empowerment. They claim that there are many other factors which play important role in human empowerment. The reachability of humans to education and knowledge enhancement which fosters awareness among them empowers human by all means. It increases ability to think rationally and logically, thereby facilitating the whole society. Justin Trudeau, Prime Minister of Canada, is a great example to his notion. His rightful and well-occupied education and knowledge has paved way for complete growth of Canada.

His social welfare policies in accordance to public interest have empowered all Canadians to grow economically, socially and politically. This is how education and awareness facilitates in empowerment of human in any society.

Furthermore, the opponents argue on ~~from~~ evidences from Great wars in history. They claim that the wars in history and the growth of States were merely dependent on women participation. They believe that men were the real heroes for today's world history. It is evident through Nazi Germany Hitler, unbeatable army during world war I. He was able to conquer almost 85% of global powers without any support of women. The strong male soldiers played the most important role in his strategy to rule the world in 18th century. Hence, evidences from history highlights the stagnant role of women in human empowerment.

In spite of all the critiques, it cannot be overlooked that women empowerment plays a crucial role in human empowerment.

Women has power to transform generations, they are the building blocks of civilization on which whole nations rest. From the point of conceiving a child till the death bed of any woman, she remains in continuous worry for her children. A woman crosses every limit to facilitate her children, this is how she poses power to change nations. A Hollywood movie, Family and Mother from cradle to grave, highlights a role of women in transforming generations. A well-educated woman frames her whole life differently to empower her children and play an important role in contribution to human empowerment. Therefore, it cannot be ignored that women empowerment is linked with human empowerment.

Moreover, women play a major role to promote awareness regarding basic rights. A strong woman has power to encourage whole nation to fight back of their basic rights which any state or international society urges to provide. Muniba Mazari, a famous human empowerment advocate in the United Nations, deliver endless speeches and has written around fifteen books which highlights the importance of basic fundamental rights. She encourages all young women to fight for their basic rights, which ultimately empowers whole human community. The awareness regarding human fundamental basic right through strong woman advocate enhances human empowerment completely.

Women promote equality among all social groups, they deliver social duties which gives up the socio-economic gap within society.

Mother Teresa is a great example for promoting social equality among social groups through encouraging and empowering all the marginalized communities. She plays a crucial role to encourage lower segments of society by charity collection drive in Calcutta. Therefore, it can not be ignored that women promote equality among all social groups which in turn empowers every human.

In addition, women play an important role in education enhancement of all people.

An educated woman wants to turn her whole nation educated, as education changes the way a person thinks and understand things around himself. Malala Yousafzai, a well-known woman education advocate, has open many girls schools in far-flung areas to facilitate every student. One of the famous school which.

was initiated by Malala Yousafzai is Girls High School in Lebanon and Syria, around three thousand girls seek education under this platform. This is how an empowered girl turns the whole mankind empowered.

Furthermore, women help to gain economic stability globally. In respect to Global Economy Turmoil reports, 2022, it is evident that women hold a greater cognitive ability to solve economic issues through rational thinking and as the world is moving towards computerized economic system than man power manual work, it is important to encourage women in economic field. The women in economy and industries help to increase global GDP by thirty percent, claimed by UNESCO. Therefore, is it important to empower women economically to gain human empowerment in larger scale which brings nearly all nations towards economic stability.

Moreover, women in politics help to empower many other marginalized and voiceless women in world. Kofi Anna, Former General Secretary of UN, highlights that women should be put into politics as they tend to promote all ignorant marginalized groups. Women hold an ability to form better policies for social welfare in light to consider their vulnerabilities. Therefore, it is widely believed that women in politics helps to promote and encourage voices of hundreds of voiceless people, thereby empowering every human being to participate in policy formation.

Women play a crucial role in strengthening social cohesion and acceptability. They tend to empower every single individual in community, mainly their caste, ethnicity and social background.

Rosa Parks, Mother of Blacks, rejected to travel without any Black American in bus in 1954. She is known as mother of Blacks, she started the movement to pinpoint the vulnerabilities the Blacks ~~are~~ <sup>were</sup> facing in America. Rosa Parks, has an important role in Black lives matter movement. Hence, through such events and examples it is evident that women empowerment is linked with human empowerment by promoting acceptability and social cohesion among all people of society.

Additionally, women tend to hold an innate nature of care and empathy.

American Psychological Association reported that women have greater level of oxytocin hormone in their body, which ~~to~~ enhances their sense of care and empathy. Advocate Marry Joseph, a famous Juvenile court advocate, closed two hundred cases of juvenile in high court and through her rehabilitation and retreatment program she was able to recover more than hundred children from delinquent acts. Therefore, it is evident that the innate nature of care and empathy in women help her to empower whole community, thereby encouraging human empowerment.

Certain factors need to be considered to strengthen women empowerment which would further result in human empowerment.

Plato, in his book Power Politics, highlights that growth of nation is intertwined with women representation in politics. He further argues that women should be included in legislature and policy formation which enhances their role politically, as well as, it paves way to empower the whole community. Women hold a strong sense to understand ~~pat~~ public interests which inturn empowers public of nation.

Moreover, government should lean towards elimination of job and wage disparity among men and women in working setting. According to Human Resource Management Theory of Public Administration, women have ability to take better decisions and they tend to possess strong critical analysis. In reference to such theories women should be given managerial roles and there should be clear elimination of glass ceiling in work places. This empowers women on economic grounds which is interlinked with human empowerment in economic stability.

Lastly, nations should enhance education opportunities for women, through education women could be empowered. For example, The San Diego University California, provides ~~scholarship~~ scholarship programs to women and according to its graduation list eight students around the world mainly Asian regions graduated from San Diego university in 2023. These women were offered top notch jobs right after their graduation which help them to reach their goals. Through education women should be empowered which, ultimately, results in complete social change by empowering whole mankind.

To sum up the discussion in a nutshell, it is evident that women empowerment is linked with human empowerment, as women play a very important role in society. They make half population of globe, by their empowerment the human nation gets empowered because they have power to change generations, promote awareness regarding basic fundamental rights, and they hold power to promote peace, equality and prosperity in a nation. Furthermore, it is impossible to imagine a world without women as they are the building blocks of society which plays a crucial role to shape the whole nation. Additionally, empowerment of any state or nation is linked with human empowerment as they have important roles in every domain of society. ~~The~~ Several factors need to be consider to strengthen women empowerment, such as ~~the~~ encouraging them to avail upright education, providing them equal share in economy, and politics. Through these means woman is empowered which in turns empower the whole mankind.

"A single woman weighs more than hundreds of men"

- Betty Friedman
