

title:

Urban Green Space as Oasis
of Tranquility

Urban green spaces provide havens for relaxation and for wildlife, by balancing urbanization and environmental preservation. Serving as venues for cultural events, city parks also play vital role in community bonding. Beyond leisure they also promote overall well-being and mental health by giving refuge for introspection and rejuvenation. Efforts for human and environmental health are taken, even it is challenging for sustainable urban development to coexist concrete jungle and natural havens. Cultivation and preservation of green spaces is shared responsibility, fostering cohabitation between human and environment.
