

Topic:

Human Development and Economic Sustainability

Outline:

1. Introduction

1.1 Attention Grabber

1.2 General Statements

1.3 Thesis Statement: There is a great interdependence between human development and economic sustainability as both are linked with each other.

2. Relationship of Human Development with Economic sustainability

2.1 Budget allocation for human development

2.2 Focus on education will lead to economic sustainability

2.3 Proper tax payers and economic sustainability

2.4 Developed individuals leading economy towards growth

3. Human development is a pre-requisite for economic sustainability

3.1 Educated people necessary for economic sustainability

3.2 Social welfare of humans essential for economic sustainability

3.2.1 Case of Denmark

3.3 Human social development

3.4 Human political development

3.4.1 Case of US President

3.5 Freedom for people

4. Conclusion

The Essay

"Economic growth without investment in human development is unsustainable," Nobel laureate Amartya Sen. Human development is a broad term, it not only includes development of human beings in their individual lives rather it involves the development of human beings politically and socially as well. Sustainability is the name of collective efforts. In any state, if human beings are developed they can make the economy sustainable by including themselves in the sustainability process.

Unfortunately most of the third world countries rank low on the Human Development Index or HDI.

Pakistan ranks 164 out of 193 countries according to the HDI 2023-24.

This is a stark reality. Real progress comes from policies that prioritize people, expand freedoms empower the marginalised and create equitable opportunities. There is a great relationship between human development and economic sustainability. Human development is a pre-requisite for economic sustainability. Therefore, this essay will discuss the ~~inter~~ independence of human development and economic sustainability.