

The Role of women in political and economic progress.

1- Introduction:

Thesis Statement.

When women are empowered every body wins, society improves, business strengthens and economy booms. However, women face numerous challenges in political and economic.

These should be reduced so that they can take active part in politics and economy effectively.

2- Role of women in political and economic progress :-

a) Women are enhancing gender equality in politics and economy.

(Kamala Harris in US.)

b) They are involved in breaking the patriarchal mindset along with societal stereotypes.

(Hina Rabani Khar.)

c) Increasing number of women in legislature shows the role of women in political and economic progress.

(International Report on Women Participation)

6/10
d) In economy, women increases the household income.

(Punjab Empowerment Programme)

e) Women play leadership role in the business and cooperations.

(Roshare Zafar from Kasht Foundation)

f) Effective policies regarding social issues can be possible with women participation in politics and economy.

(Benazir Bhutto role)

g) Women in politics enhances the global diplomacy.

(Maleeha Lodhi)

h) In economy, women enhances the growth through digital along with technological perspective.

(Marvi Memon chairperson of BISP)

3) Challenges faced by women in political and economic progress:

a) Gender bias discrimination limits the role of women in politics and economic progress.

(WB report on gender discrimination)

b) Limited access of women in education along with training affects the women.

(UNESCO report.)

c) Women involved in politics face violence.

(#Me too Movement.)

d) Adequate support system is negligible for women both in politics and economy.

(European Union case study.)

e) Limited political representation is a big challenge for women in politics.

(National Assembly → 22% women representation.)

4) Countering the challenges faced by women in politics and economy.

a) Increasing female participation in politics.

(Rwanda → 61% women in politics.)

b) Promotion of gender equality in economic and politics.

(Sweden Gender Equality Policies.)

c) Combating the gender biased violence.

(Protection against harassment of women Act - 2010.)

d) Women education and training programmes in politics and economy.

5) Conclusion.

When women participate in the economy everyone benefits.

The quote by Hillary Clinton depicts the fact that the society's development not only possible through man's role but women's participation is also important.

The dawn of 21st century saw an incredible increase in women participation both in politics and economy. As the advancement in technology and increasing digital world, there seems induction of women in every sphere of life. The economic and political progress of a country improved by the participation of both men and women. Women are playing emerging role in both dimensions and leading men in this regard.

Women participation in politics and economy enhances promotion of gender equality, their leadership role in politics and economy, global diplomacy boosts due to women participation along with others.

However, gender biased violence, limited access of women in education and training, limited seats and representations become challenges for the women. To enhance these, more female representations of female, combating gender biased violence, promotion of women education and training for women along with others are necessary. When women are empowered everybody wins, society improves, business strengthens and economy boosts. However, women face numerous challenges in political and economic. These should be reduced so that they can take active part in politics and economy effectively.