Impulse Control for Decision Making

The Author <sup>thinks</sup> / says that modern education theorists are giving less importance to interfering with children, and less enjoying their company. No child will be grateful for the outlet of power - impulse just for the sort of liking them as precious social endeavour. Teachers possessing same quality, will be able to interfere with children without any psychological damage. Unfortunately, it is impossible for over-worked teachers to ~~be~~ preserve an instinctive liking for children. The Author thinks that ~~education~~ <sup>education</sup> & this profession of education be taken by ~~people~~ teachers for few hours a day. The fatigued irritated child society harassed teachers to believe that discipline can not be preserved by self-control alone. It is Impulse Control leads to the right decisions, this rule is wise substitute for affection.
