Essay

Professor Fregmind, a German researcher quoted "The purpose of education is not to prepare minds that what to think, but how to think". This quote highlights need good command over language and more substantiative paragraphs that real education is not about remembering the certain facts and solving some questions in the classrooms. The main ~~purpose of education is that how students will behave in society. Are they are good enough to contribute in the well-being of society?~~

Therefore, real education prepare responsible citizen of community by promoting critical thinking, teaching teamwork and collaboration, building growth mindsets and instilling empathy and kindness. Similarly, education strengthens visions, encourages diversity and creativity.

Other than that, education also brings self awareness, making tolerant society, building collective responsibility and promoting integrity in the students.

Therefore, Education has the power to transform empty minds into open ones, fostering critical thinking, providing life skills and strengthening vision and purpose.

Empty minds and open one are paradoxical in nature. Empty mind always follow others, accept objective reality. Prioritize self interest and stagnant in mindset. However, open minds always initiate ideas, promote critical thinking and prioritize collective interest of the community over the self and vested interests.

~~The following paragraphs will discuss how education replace an empty mind with an open one.~~

Education promotes critical thinking in the students.
Education provide the platform to ask the why questions. It leads to subjectivity in the individual's personality. Person always use rational approach in his decision making.

Similarly, education taught teamwork and collaboration. In the academic institutions, students perform different activities like collective presentation and project.

These small activities actually prepare individuals that how they will work in different groups in their practical life. As Education Institute of statistics reported in 2019 that the students who collaborate and participate in classrooms, they usually perform better than others in the practical life.

In addition to that, education builds growth mindset in individuals. Growth mindset is refer to mindset.

which always strive to do best than previous results. Teacher consistently push the students to perform better than previous exam. ultimately, individuals apply growth mindset in his real life. Person try more after achieving one goal. He move to ~~long-term goals after accomplishing short-term vision.~~

Moreover, education instills empathy and kindness in students. usually, every classroom have buddy-system. Each student has a buddy or even a whole group. when one student or body did not perform, other student also feel the pain which leads to empathy and kindness.

In same way, it translate into real experiences. one individual feels the Pain or joy of the other.

Following same patterns, education strengthens vision and purpose in individuals.
At the start of every year, students make their own vision in the category of mastery, grit, agency and collective responsibility.

This practice helps the individual to make his/her goals of life.

The New year Resolution is the reinforcement that
and purpose of life.

Additionally, education encourages diversity. Almost every classroom consists of students which belongs to different ethnicities, race, sects and religion. Students adopt the living skill to cherish the diversity. According to UNESCO report 2017, children of diverse classrooms become more tolerate and responsible in future.

~~Adding to that, education~~ Promote ~~the~~ creativity in the individual life. Students in their academic life use different hands-on-activities, presenting out-of-box solution and proposal to deal the issue. Creativity lessens the individual burden. Therefore, PEW Research Center considered creativity as foundational essence of education (PRC-2021).

Moreover, education brings self-awareness in the individual. The practice of self-reflection activities in the classroom forces students to recognize the strengths and weaknesses. According to UNESCO Report 2021, Around 2.1 billion individual sleep after doing the self reflection of the whole. This shows classroom activity continues in shaping the individual life through the circumstances.

Importantly, education tolerance in the society. Education makes the student tolerant. By Following teacher instructions and not violating classroom management system is actually making students tolerate. In real life, students know that there is higher authority in the form of government.

He/she cannot violate the equilibrium of society.

Similarly, education builds collective responsibility in students. In the classroom, students learned that success of one student will be the success of ~~whole~~ classroom.
Therefore, whole school celebrates the success of one individual who won prize in any
This also replicate into real life. Consider the example of Arshad Nadeem who won gold medal in 2024 olympics. Why the whole Pakistan celebrated because people were resonating with the success of Arshad Nadeem. Similarly, the good performance of whole team leads to victory. That's why, it is reinforcement of collective responsibility.

Lastly, education instills integrity in the students. Integrity refers that they will remain honest with everyone. Education taught the students that they do not cheat in assessments and exams. They remain loyal and honest to himself.

Therefore, one thing which is common all leaders that is integrity.

According to John J. Mersheimers, integrity is foundation of Pillar of the Statesmanship.

In a nutshell, education change the empty minds with the open ones. It makes mind which cherish the success of others, adopt multidimensional approach in decision making, ask questions about validity and make them purposefull in their life. However, education trained the individuals in their upcoming obstacles by inculcating growth mindedness and self-awareness. Education also replaces shallow approach with the holistic ones, and self interest with collective interest.
