

Why I want to be a CSP officer.

Why I want to be a CSP Officer First, we are in a developing country, requiring more capabilities to set foot on the path of success. A large ratio of our people is living below the poverty line. Fortunately, I find the journey of being a CSP officer enough to teach the pros and cons of society. The very basic point I am making is that a person from the same society, unaware of all the flaws and weaknesses can be able to change it. Secondly, a CSP has the authority to change, to bring positivity, and not on-mindedness. Evidently, as per the world records, we stand 148 in corruption same as for our other sectors whether it technology, science and even the backbone of our country; Agricultural. In fact, a CSP officer who takes birth from his unique journey; connecting with books, the great authors of our era, and studying the world demands and politics can make him to bring change. Thirdly, It is evident to each Pakistani that the need of the hour is education, enabling each and every citizen for growth. Undeniably, the journey of becoming CSP officer is enlightening mind with most essential available knowledge. For instance, the current geopolitical circumstances, major powers and regional politics, these areas make an aspirant to have broader view of the world happening. Hence my dream for being a CSP officer revolves around the hope for changing, serving and overcoming our national problems.

All three best luck command over basic writing is fine