

Assignment:

Precis Writing from the mock exam paper of January 2025.

Passage:

Ah, politicians.
. performance.

Solved Precis:

Title: "The Theatre of Politics"

Word Count: 95 words

Politicians are masters of linguistic acrobatics and evasion, skillfully avoiding direct answers while projecting their intellectual depths. When asked about something, they make their inquisitor speechless with their response. They excel in making promises during elections which are often forgotten once in power. Their theatrics, from staged displays of emotions to strategic photo-ops, entertain the audience and serve as powerful tools. With adaptability, they shift ideologies and deflect scandals with exceptional agility, prioritizing self-preservation over genuine public welfare. In short, the behaviour of politicians reminds us that leadership focuses more on performance than public welfare.
