

Step-2 (Reorganization of the points of step-1)

A true statesman possesses a realistic sense of what is possible, yet remains courageous and visionary. He realizes the social forces and does not favour ^{one} over ^{the} ~~other~~ another. He prioritizes public opinion and knows the means to influence it. He also knows the power of people's reactions if the government brings on poverty and curb their liberty. A great statesman acts, not relies on words merely. Mediocre politicians cling to the schemes and empty doctrines. True statesman takes care of real needs of the nation instead of repeating ritualistic phrases. Politician is handicapped by vanity and pride. True leaders do not care for rigid principles in order to save the nation

Suitable Titles

1. Statesman Vs. Politicians.
2. Qualities of true statesman
3. Priorities of a Statesman
- 4.