

Precise Writing (Past paper - 2016)

The writer had a hard time during last vacations to choose a tour place far from crowded ones. John, his friend, suggested trip to Cherokee. ~~where~~ They experienced a heaven before them. They had to explore the historic culture of Cherokee. Despite the language barrier, they managed to visit souvenir shops where they met George. He introduced himself in fluent English and offered them a lunch with him. He told that he often had to work dawn to dusk but it was better than being a woodcutter. They learnt through him about the hardships of Cherokee's people for their survival. He added that events like "Bingo Week" generate great income.
