A Visit To an Exotic Place

Author narrated about his last vacation's trip. He was struggling to find a fun and luxurious place to visit. John suggested that they should visit Cherokee. They visited Qualla Boundary there, which presented brief image of the country's past in front of them. There they met George, who invited them for lunch. He told them about survival routine of Cherokees in different seasons. They also visited museum where arts, stone carvings of animals and symbols of Cherokee cosmology were displayed. Author was missing that place and excited for next trip to another luxurious place.
