Title : The Need for Redefined Moral Philosophy -

To serve other humans is one of the major purposes of human intelligence. This sense of empathy and kindness should be inculcated in education systems from an early age.

However, this has come across as the biggest challenge to educators and institutions in recent times. The responsibility has shifted from religious to educational institutes as the former's moral corruption led to widespread agnostic beliefs in the society.

Resultantly, The society is devastated by pragmatism, enshrined in Machiavelli's crooked philosophy of morality and There is a dire need to fix that with strong devotion and institutional capacity to integrate moral sensitivity as a crucial part of complex human intelligence -
