Education: A mere opportunity for growth?

Freedom in education have three main schools of thought, having different goals and psychological theories. Different schools of thought are that children should be free, that they should be subject to authority, or that they should always be ~~considered~~ good - regardless of their behavior or degree of freedom. Belief that liberty will ensure moral perfection has led to belief that education should have no positive purpose. We live in communities which require cooperation. Education must be something more positive than a mere opportunity for growth. It must also provide a mental and moral equipment which children cannot acquire for themselves.

While taking a nap on the porch, one hot summer day, Hodqa dreamed that a stranger promised to give him ten pieces of gold. The stranger placed them in Hodqa's hand - one by one - until he reached the tenth piece, which he hesitated to give him. "Come on, what are you waiting for", said Hodqa. You promised me ten; just then he woke up. He immediately looked at his hand, and saw that it was empty. He quickly shut his eyes again; stretched out his hand, and said, "All right, I'll settle for nine."
