

Day 01: Mastering English Essay

Topic:

'Rise of right-wing politics -
Threat to global peace'

Outline

1. Introduction

1.1 Hook

1.2 General statements

1.3 Paradigm shift in geopolitics

gave rise to right wing politics, inducing a conservative and nationalist approach towards international relations and that resulted in disturbing the regional ties causing a threat to global peace.

2. Rise of right wing politics and its world-wide consequences

2.1 A paradigm shift in the political approach shift of world leaders.

2.2 Blind race of economy and power gave rise to right-wing politics

2.3 Nationalist approach of developed countries is changing geo-political dynamics.

3. How right wing politics is a threat to global peace?

3.1 It weakens the international institutions, rising questions to their effectiveness.

3.2 Strict immigration policies of countries affecting regional ties.

3.3 Imposition of sanctions rising questions to multilateralism.

3.4 Climate skeptical approach of right-wing affecting the environment.

4. Critical analysis

Why and how this paradigm shift happened eventually rising the right-wing politics and disturbing world peace order and what should be the way forward.

5. Conclusion

As the clock ticks and change the numbers continuously, like wise geo-politics is also continuously varying its dynamics. Over the recent years, the world has started witnessing a rise to right-wing politics again. The world has directed more towards nationalism, neglecting the previous theories of (now) multilateralism, liberalism and cooperation and this paradigm shift has become more obvious after the 'election year -2024'. 2024 was the year of elections globally which resulted into the rise of nationalist and conservative political leaders like Modi, Trump, Khamenie and more. This was the turning point for geopolitics.

As far we are living in the age of nationalist leaders, their approach is more state centric, neglecting the international cooperation. Trump has adopted the policy of 'America first' which is obvious through his speeches and actions like promoting made-in-America products and films and imposing higher tariffs on imported products. Similarly, Indian prime minister Modi has adopted the same state centric policy of 'Akhand Bharat' or 'Global India' dropping the previous policies of secularist India. Following the footsteps of right-wing politics has made countries blind in the race of economy and power, disturbing the regional peace.

x—————x

Note:

It is Outline and introduction practice. Kindly evaluate to tell where I stand right now and how can I work on my shortcomings. I will try to submit a full-essay on the same topic by Friday, inshaAllah.