A recreational and cultural visit to Cherokee.

2. Précis:-

John came up with an idea to visit Cherokee, a county in the state of Oklahoma. They took a flight and visited Qualla Boundary, a town with magnificent scenery. Cherokee was depicting its past with the help of tribal crafts and lifestyle of Oconaluftee Indian village. They came across a souvenir shop full of rubber tomahawks and traditional war elements.

They met George, who was fluent in English, and invited them to ~~coffee~~ lunch. George worked down to dust in tour season but in off-season he used to cut woods which hardly make ends meet. Moreover, in off-season, they rely on games on Bingo weekend to attract crowds, which gives them revenue.

Their final stop was a local museum full of traditional artwork depicting Cherokee's cosmology. The tour was worth remembrance.
