

Trump's Foreign Policy, Shifting the US towards isolationism.

Indeed, Trump's foreign policy is shifting the USA towards isolationism.

Recent decisions of Trump are testament to this - He has ordered to cut off the aids which are even less than 1% of US budget. He works on protectionism and isolationism, as same was practiced by founder of Republican : The wineonism.

Trump's policy is based on Quid Pro Quo. It means he wants to give ^{something} in exchange ~~of~~ something.

He wants to grow the America solely, instead of helping other countries as well and enabling them to grow.

Moreover, he refused to give more aid to Ukraine as well. He is practicing such policing not ~~at~~ only at international arena, but also with his own country. He has given orders to states to run their educational institutes, dual system is waste of money. Some analyst argues that Trump is ~~taking~~ comedy such orders as he is a populist leader.

Trump take popular decisions to make himself populist

There is division of opinions. However, the current decisions are steering the USA toward isolation.
