

How does the system of checks and balances work in the U.S Political system? Explain with example.

Introduction:

The United States system of checks and balances is a foundational principle designed to prevent any one branch of government - legislature, Executive, or Judicial - from becoming too powerful. This system ensures that each branch has specific power to monitor and limit the actions of the others, maintaining a balance of authority.

Checks and balance of power is divided into three branches. Power does not remain constant in single branch.

In US Political system power is divided into three branches like, legislative, executive, and Judicial. This structure prevents any single branch from becoming too powerful by assigning distinct responsibilities to each and enabling them to limit one another's actions.
