

Education Should be free

1. Introduction

Education should be free for the political, social, and economic betterment of the society. Several remedial measures can be taken to overcome the hurdles in the provision of free education.

2. Education Should be free:

- 2.1) For ending the social stratification by providing equal opportunities to everyone.
- 2.2) For eliminating the gender literacy gap globally by breaking gender stereotypes.
- 2.3) For providing a better future for upcoming generations by enrolling the impoverished children.
- 2.4) For reducing brain drain and unemployment by ensuring skills into youth.

2.5) For protecting nation and oneself from cyber warfare by providing knowledge of cyber security.

2.6) For making one an asset of the state by inculcating defense strategies and military training.

2.7) For preserving environment by spreading awareness regarding consequences of human industrial activities.

2.8) For improving abysmal state of health by debunking myths and conspiracy theories.

3. Hurdles in the provision of free education:

3.1) Social Taboos regarding women education.

3.2) Absence of Educational Institutes in rural areas.

3.3) Resource Strained Global South.

3.4) Red Taping of Bureaucracy.

4. Remedial Measures To Overcome The Hurdles In the provision of Free Education:

4.1) Strong political will of the leaders and inclusivity in policies.

4.2) Infrastructural development in rural areas.

4.3) Strict Implementation of the free education policy.

4.4) Global collaboration and awareness programs.

5. Conclusion

Essay

Education is the most important jewel in the crown of a nation. Without this jewel a nation cannot survive, this displays the importance of education and necessitates the need to provide free education. Education should be free, be it any form of education, either formal or informal. It should be free because it acts as a tool for the betterment of society; by eliminating the social stratification, by reducing brain drain and unemployment, by protecting nation, and by preserving environment from devastating human industrial activities. The hurdles in the provision of free education chokes the purpose of education. Social taboos regarding women education coupled with absence of educational institutes in rural areas are among the hurdles in provision of free education. To avert the hurdles in provision, remedial measures such as strong political will, infrastructural development in rural areas, and strict implementation of free education policy are the need of time.