

Précis:

Hope is a Life Saviour

In Northern Europe moderate temperature is very beneficial. Because cold climate makes the people more active by behaving as a hurdle. According to writer hurdles are key constituents for human beings to provoke their hidden energies. In fact, invincible hurdles make the man hopeless, so he becomes lazy and unambitious. And lack of hurdles make him inefficient too because he does not face any challenge to utilize his energy. Despite of both these, in moderate circumstances with few obstacles a man emerges as more active and challenging. Because he possesses a hope to surpass all the obstructions and this hope makes him capable to utilize all of his energies to face all the hardships with resilience.

(119 words)