Lahore is not a political city but also an ancient cultural hub. The Mughals witnessed the zenith of their culture in this city. This was also the centre of Sikh culture. The culture of Science and literature also came to be part of this city. This was also the center of Sufism. Hazrat Ali Hajvery, author of famous book of Sufism Kashf al-Majub, Hazrat Dada Ganiy Buksh are also buried in this city. Even during the British era, Lahore's fashion was popular throughout the Sub-continent. Even after the creation of Pakistan, the importance of this city did not decrease.
