

Swarp rebutted that he had eyed on getting a degree in order to graduate, and that would not be possible without studying to pass the examination. Upon which Jack argued that attaining a degree isn't that fruitful and might just help in getting petty clerkship job at a government office, and even most people with degrees don't get that either. Swarp partially agreed, but remained resilient with continuation of studying as his ulterior motives to study were to enhance his knowledge and enlighten his mind with intellect.

Jack: Hello, Swarup! Swatting away as usual. Come out, man; shut up your old books, and come and have a game of tennis.

Swarup: I am sorry I cannot do that, Jack. The examination is drawing near, and I want every hour I can get for study.

Jack: Oh! Hang all examinations! I do not worry about mine. What is the use of them, any way?

Swarup: Well, you can't get a degree if you don't pass the examination; and I have set my heart on being a graduate.

Jack: And pray what good will graduation do you? You may get a clerkship in a government office; but that's all, and there are hundreds of fellows who have got their degrees, and are no nearer getting jobs of any sort.

Swarup: That may be so; but I am not studying so much to pass my examination and obtain my degree, as to store my mind with knowledge and develop my intellectual faculties.
