

The More Laws, The Less Justice

Outlines:

1.

Introduction

The non-efficient laws also numerous, and the absence of justice can be divorced through pragmatic measures.

2.

The More Laws and The Less Justice:

2.1) Politically motivated policies directly affecting innocent people and their due rights.

The Revocation of Article-370A by India.

2.2) Multiple pledges and treaties yet the climate affecting the non-contributors of global warming.

Paris Agreement and Pakistan

2.3) International Courts and laws and the prevailing genocides.

International Court of Justice and Palestine

2.4) Prevailing Customary laws and the curtailment of right to life

Sati practice in India.

- 2.5) Cyber crime laws and the un-effective enforcement leading to unpunished offenders.
- complexities of cyber crimes and world.
- 2.6) Taxation laws squeezing the lay man's already basic salary.
- IMF 2024 report on Pakistan
- 2.7) Plethora of Women Rights and Charters yet the poor state women globally.
- UN report 2025.
- 2.8) Media regulatory framework and the curb on the right to information.
- USA protest 2025.
- 2.9) Trading laws, sanctions and rules affecting the competitive opponents, and developing countries.
- US-China Trade war.

3- How More Laws Should Provide Justice:

- 3.1) Constitutional equality ensuring gender equality and absence of gender discrimination.
- Iceland : Gender Gap Index.

3.2) Economic policies and rules, opportunities encouraging participation and inclusivity.

• Bangladesh Textile Report : WB

4. Ways To Promote Justice With Increased Number of Laws:

4.1) Pragmatic law making.

4.2) Fundamental Human Rights should be kept as a priority.

4.3) Efficient law enforcement.

4.4) Enhanced Roles of Stakeholders

4.5) Awareness regarding critical issues.

5. Conclusion:

Your arguments are okay but rewrite your thesis statement it doesn't make any sense..