

Confidence is silent, insecurities are loud.

Outline:

A. Introduction

This statement: ~~In fact~~ Confidence is silent while insecurities are loud through their strength performance, actions and wording.

B. Bird's-eye view

- 1- confidence
- 2- insecurities

C. How Confidence is silent While insecurities are loud

- 1- Confident ~~person~~ individual ensures true innovation while insecure person rely on blame-game

Case in point:

The educational efforts of Sir
Syed Ahmed Khan in sub-continent gave a true sense of political knowledge to muslims.

- 2- Self-esteem & entrenches the determination against vague traditional norms in society which through reasoning but arrogance brings force.

Case in point

Malala Yousif Zai's advocative inner-strength led her to contain the patriarchal paradox.

- 3- Religious assurance brings inner peace and calm on contrary religious extremism enhances chaos and violence

Case in point

RSS religious extremism against Muslim society in India

- 4- Ideological strength assures the nation-building in true sense on other hand fragile ideology leads to instability and emotional unrest.

Case in Point:

True Islam ideology in British 3

India recognized the muslim as a powerful Muslim nation

- 5- Self-reliant society accepts competency but vulnerable one relies on accusations and blame

Case in point:

The rise of Japan after two nuclear attacks

- 6- Economic strength fosters silent power of trade dominance, in contrast economic insecurity boosts defensiveness

Case in point

US-China Economic rivalry shows shivering foot of U.S. in Trade war

- 7- Self-determined arts speak with its innate meaning, on other hand attention-seeking arts require approval

Case in point:

The art of Vincent van Gogh speaks more than modern protests against war.

9- Self-trust brings silent power to rule the world, while uncertainty causes anxiety

Case in point:

The Ottoman Turks arose from a village (Konya) and ruled the three continents of world.

D- Conclusion